Minister Of Agriculture Explains Rail System Of Hog Grading: Bacon Pact

SASKATOON, Dec. 17.—(CP)—Dominion Agriculture Minister Gardiner told delegates to the conference of western Canadian agriculturists at the afternoon session here Monday that rail grading of hogs, considered the most efficient system of determining the quality of a hog, was adopted for Canada by the federal department of agriculture after 62 per cent of the nation's hog producers had adopted it voluntarily.

IMPORTATION PERMITS ARE BEING GIVEN

Minister Grants Right To Certain Livers Under Wartime Act

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—(CP)—Certain permits for the importation of gasoline, lubricating oils, hardware and various other goods are being issued by Revenue Minister Giddens under the War Exchange Control Act. However, the minister said, no permit will be granted under the act for the importation of goods from the dominions.

NO RESERVATIONS

The included such articles as passenger automobiles, refrigerators, milk, wool and cotton products and other luxuries and semi-luxuries essential articles.

No permits have been issued on the primary list of goods prohibited but it is possible that permits on certain articles if they are found essential to war needs.

UNDRESSED FURS

The department has not yet issued permits for undressed furs. One source said it was a safe practice not to permit the importation of undressed furs but permits will be permitted for furs which have been dressed.

NAZI RAIDERS BELIEVED IN SOUTH PACIFIC

HONOLULU, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A belief that "three or four" German surface raiders are operating in the South Pacific was expressed Monday by a member of the crew of the City of Haville, United States steamship sunk off Australia, apparently by a mine.

Twenty-one survivors led by Capt. Arthur Cronin, arrived on the steamship Arcturion, on route from Australia to New York. Capt. Cronin declined to discuss the sinking.

FOUR ON LIST

When placed fourth on the list, the ship was placed in the category of "four" because of the time to time, as the ship was damaged by a mine.

Beacon was one of the list for the reason that it was damaged by a mine. The ship was damaged by a mine.

The only reports of a raider operating in the part of the world have come following sinkings near Australia, where it is thought that the ship was sunk by a mine.

No sinkings by the Nazi fleet. No sinkings by the City of Haville, a Canadian liner Niagara and an unidentified British ship have been reported in Australian and New Zealand waters.

HOG PRODUCER GETS 73 P.C. BACON PRICES

This Is Estimate Of Hon. J. G. Taggart, Chairman Of Board

SASKATOON, Dec. 17.—(CP)—Approximately 73 per cent of the money received by the Bacon Board from the federal government will be paid to the producer, according to a rough estimate given by Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan minister of agriculture and chairman of the Canadian Bacon Board, in an address to the conference.

The conference was called by the Agricultural Supply Board to discuss the hog industry and the recent food agreements with the United Kingdom.

It was attended by approximately 100 persons including representatives of farm organizations, packers, and the ministers of agriculture and the interior.

Italy Still Has Enough Ships To Do Considerable Damage If Fleet Properly Handled

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—British naval circles, commenting on Saturday night's Royal Air Force raid on Italian warships at Naples, acknowledged last night that the Italian fleet "remains a not inconsiderable force" capable of doing great damage if properly handled.

OTTAWA KEEPS TAB ON WAGES, LIVING COSTS

Government Officials Watch Relationship To Prevent Under Trend

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—(CP)—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board and other government agencies are keeping a sharp eye on the relationship between wages and prices in the Dominion.

The board believes wages are up spirally over the period of a year anywhere from five to 15 per cent. The cost of living, according to the latest figures of the bureau of statistics, was up 33 per cent in October, standing at 103 compared with 100 for October, 1939.

Government officials are watching the situation closely, and are aware of the fact that the cost of living is up because of developments in the last war, when prices rose as the buying power of the dollar increased. For a time there seemed to be no end to the upward trend.

Grads' Records Off Press

ONLY two things remained to be done in wind up the Grads in the same satisfactory way that the team always functioned. These things were the printing of a complete historical and statistical record of the club from its first to finish and the other matter is the erection of some sort of permanent memorial to the girls here in Edmonton.

The first of these remaining wind-up details has now been disposed of. Today the complete record of the Grads is off the press in a striking booklet form and ready for distribution while the supply lasts.

This booklet contains 32 pages as compared with 70 in the souvenir one issued in the spring of 1939. There are ten full-page pictures of the great teams of the past. One of the most interesting pictures is that taken during the Grads reunion last June, and contains the pictures of 36 former Grads "girls."

The individual record of every girl scoring five or more points per game during the time she was on the team is given, as well as the standing of the first ten girls named for positions on the "All-Time All-Star" Grads team.

There is also a statistical review of the final season's play, and a comparison of the team's achievements with that of the best men's teams in the United States.

Community League Teams Set

TUESDAY night will see another season of Community League hockey launched here with no less than 18 teams competing in three divisions—minor, juvenile and junior. This organization and the leagues it supports is in addition to the city leagues operating under the Edmonton District Hockey Association.

When tributes are being paid the men who make hockey possible for the youngsters, the contribution of the Federation of Community Leagues is often forgotten. This organization makes no effort to engage in city hockey for gate receipts or glory. So long as it can provide open facilities for the kids in the various communities it is pleased.

However many of the clubs that have gone from Edmonton to international hockey fame got their start on the open rinks and in the teams sponsored by these community groups. This year will over 200 youngsters would be without a chance to play organized hockey if these Community Leagues were shut down, which they are not, while thousands of youngsters would be deprived of a chance to skate.

Don't think for a minute that with four city athletic clubs sponsoring skating, in-junior, and junior teams in skating in the Federation of Community Leagues that Edmonton is over-saturated with sponsoring bodies. If the money and men were available, we could have twice as many kids playing organized city hockey as we now have.

One of the social problems facing G. Bowen, sports director of the Federation of Community Leagues in relation to skating for his games. With each game bringing a fee of one dollar, there should be a number of young men here paid to handle a whistle and gain experience. If you could like to try it, call G. Bowen at 21784.

Baseball Feels Effects of College

BASBALL has begun to feel the effects of college education down in the United States and it is a pain in the neck. Maybe you haven't noticed it, but it's getting mighty hard to find a major league baseball club while a few football outfits are snapped up at once by men with the sort of money that comes from the big money in Wall Street. James Farley is having to scramble like and blubber all over half the United States to find something like $2,000,000 even to buy the New York Yankees. The Boston Braves are reported to be years for $200,000 cash and clean bill of health for Judge Landis, who proves that you are allergic to horse racing. Brooklyn Dodgers have been in the hands of a New York bank for years and are just getting out under the guidance of Larry McPhail.

It's entirely different however in pro football. A short time ago young Alvin Thompson bought the Pittsburgh Steelers. He is heir to a big fortune and the vice-president of a New York drug manufacturing firm. A year ago the Detroit Lions were snapped up by Ford Mandel of the Chicago department stores for a week of cash that looked like a war budget. Brooklyn Dodgers are backed by Dan Topping who made millions in it. Tom Mora has plenty to keep his New York club going for the rest of his life. In fact every pro club with the exception of the Philadelphia Eagles has money aplenty behind it.

One of the major explanations of this flood of money for pro football and scarcity of it for baseball seems to be that the rich men buying up grid franchises are college men who were exposed to the football virus in their younger days and never got over the infection.

A baker and prominent advocate of women's suffrage in Alberta, N.C. in between 1884 and 1887, his broad ideas were the words "Equal Rights" as a trade-mark.

MIGHTY YANKS PLACE LAST IN TEAM BATTING

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Baseball fans have known after the season's close that the 1940 American League batting championship—by the official circuit hitting averages, released today—would go to the Yankees. On how the big outfielder won his second straight hitting title.

The Yankees fell to last place in the club batting standings.

The team took the championship with an average of .352 in 132 games after a fine September performance which saw him pace both Big Red-cliff of St. Louis, who held the lead most of the season, and Luke Appling, Chicago, White Sox, shutout.

Appling finished with .345 and Ted Williams, Boston, slumped after .342.

McCabe and Roger Connors, Cleveland, finished with .341 and .340 respectively.

Among Detroit's 170 hits for the year were 10 home runs, 100 more than last season. He also had a total base figure of 314 and made 28 doubles and seven triples. His batting mark of .352, however, was 29 points under the Yankees' mark, which gave him the 1039 batting crown.

Brown Bomber's Timing Bad After Six Months' Idleness

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Joe Louis came back from his six months' vacation to an easy job of work Monday, but he wasn't the devastating Brown Bomber in disposing of Al McCoy, an overgrown light-heavyweight.

It took him five full rounds to cut down a fellow he outweighed by 21½ pounds and who had no punch in his left. After taking a punnelling for 15 minutes, McCoy, his left eye closed and his rib rod from right hand shots, was unable to come up for the sixth heat.

Commissioner George Lavinie, the bell rung for the sixth round and that Louis was awarded a technical knockout victory in that round.

The second round crowd over to turn out for a fight in the Boston Garden enjoyed itself thoroughly while it lasted, but didn't like the finish and booed as the public address system announced "McCoy's eye is in bad condition and he refuses to come out for the sixth round."

Except for a tightly closed left eye the much smaller McCoy emerged without an obvious mark.

"I wanted to keep going, and I could have gone the limit, but they wouldn't let me come out for the sixth," McCoy explained.

"Louis hit harder than they say he does," Al continued. "Three rounds ago I was feeling pretty good, but the first round almost paralyzed me and I had trouble straightening up."

"I think Billy Costello and a much better boxer than Louis but, with Fries and Riverside next in line, he can't punch as hard."

Mickey Gets Riled In Leaf's-Canadians Game

After Ken Beaton, of the Los Angeles, had been slapped into the penalty box by referee Mickey Roy for cross-checking Billy Taylor of the Leafs, a mild verbal tussle took place when Ted Blake heaved himself from the players' bench to tell Mr. Roy in his opinion of him. Mr. Roy was not a bit backward in telling Blake what he thought of him, and by this picture, it appears to be getting the best of the verbal warfare. Sweeney Shriver (1) of the Leafs, is the interested spectator. In addition to winning the verbal battle, Roy slapped a $25 fine on Blake for leaving the players' bench.

Duke Of Windsor Teams With Sarazen Against Snead

MIAMI, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor, relieved over improvement in the Duchess' condition, relaxed in a golf match Monday and saw Sam Snead score a six-under-par 65.

The Duke, himself an enthusiastic golfer, scored an 85, taking time out between shots for instructions from Duke's former British and United States Open champion.

The Duke teamed with Sarazen in a best ball and aggregate match against Snead, 1940 Canadian Open champion, who had as alternate partner Capt. Vyvyan Drury, an aide of the Duke's close friends.

The Duke was in high spirits as he took a 10-foot putt for the final green to square the match.

Hogan Doesn't Want Rating As Continent's No. 1 Player

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the big money man of the year, insists he isn't the United States No. 1 golfer. Furthermore, he says he is glad if it

"I never want to reach the top," Hogan said Monday after clinching a tie campaign by finishing third in the 1940 Miami Open.

"After a golfer gets to the top there is only one way he can go down—and that's down."

Hogan must have acquired that philosophy during those tedious years it took him to battle his way to the front ranks of professional golf.

He said Ralph Guldahl played in his first tournament together in 1936. Hogan kept plugging away after waiting Guldahl reach the pinnacle of two consecutive National Open championships.

Ben was a good golfer but could not quite catch through to the peak. Hogan kept plugging away after waiting Guldahl reach the pinnacle of two consecutive National Open championships.

YEAR PRODUCES NO NEW TRENDS FOR U.S. SPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Sports edifice throughout the United States, asked to name 1940's principal trend in the annual Associated Press survey to find out which way the sports wind is blowing, have come to the conclusion that the year was distinguished for its lack of any single major development.

In all 16 "trends" were mentioned by more than one of the 72 commentators. The closest to a true representative answer was increased striving in college football, with a resultant increase in scoring. This was mentioned by 15.

Eight of them noted greater interest in attendance at professional sports events, primarily pro football. There were seven suggestions each for a boom in bowling and continued de-emphasis of college football, with Yale and Princeton mentioned as the latter.

Five experts gave a trend in the continued spread of night baseball. In the major leagues, the same number who listed the decline in professional boxing, particularly out of New York, as noteworthy. Three editors found minor league baseball on the wane, while a similar number voted for a return of football power to the east (two say it returning to the Western Conference and had good teams in Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern).

Mutiny On Mana

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—There was mutiny on the Mana Monday and Joe Louis was the cause of it all. The Mana, a Honduran freighter, which should have sailed Sunday, remained in port with Captain Charles Fox busy entertaining himself. His negro crew, mutinying since Saturday, had told him they wouldn't be back until they had seen Monday night Louis-Kay. Fox heavy-weight boxer.

"Fifth Down" Is Sports Oddity

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Dismissed delayed football victory over Cornell, already chosen the No. 1 upset of the year, was played out again for special notice Monday in 1940's prize sports oddity in the United States.

The country's Sports Editors were strong for the "fifth down." Sixty of them had it somewhere on their list, and most of them put it right at the top.

From a free supplementary action of a fluke incident, it was difficult to find a definite reason. The honors appeared divided fairly evenly among Ed O'Brien's disqualification from the U.S. open championship for being too early, Jimmy Wilson's theft of second base in the world series, and the attempted double play of Tommy Harmon made in the California-Michigan game by mugged pitcher, which won a many more superb and athletic citizens, mixed his mark.

By Robt. Ripley "T" FORMATION HAS FANS GA-GA SOUTH OF LINE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—That "T formation" is the new craze in the line in connection with football.

Ever since the Chicago Bears walked the Western Conference with this ancient formation, the country has gone gaga over the intricacies of a system that is as old as football.

So the other night Frank Leahy, coach of the team which will meet Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day, was almost swamped when he admitted that he used a variation of this formation in seven of the ten games that B.C. won.

Leahy was in New York along with officials of Boston college to receive the Lambert Trophy emblematic of the eastern football championship.

Leahy explained that basically Boston college was not a "T" formation team but that the three or four times in each of seven games he had used the "T" formation was successful. Successful, in fact, for the "T" formation.

But before you go out and bet on Leahy to lead his team to Tennessee, remember that the Bears and Leahy's success are as different as black and white.

In the Bears' "T" the quarterback is the star, and he is every body's business. He is the one who is getting up steam as they move down the field, and he is the one who is getting up steam as they move down the field, and he is the one who is getting up steam as they move down the field.

Bryan Hextall Of Rangers Soars Up Into Second Place

MONTREAL, Dec. 17.—(CP)—Two assistants that Boston's Bill Cowley picked up during the last week, kept him perched at the top of the National Hockey League scoring race, official league figures showed Monday.

Cowley, with five goals and 12 assists, retained his one-point lead, but this time it was Bryan Hextall of Rangers who was in second spot, with 16 points. Hextall moved up from third during the week.

Toronto's Mel Apps was in third place, another point behind, after having up from sixth position while in fourth spot were Gordie Drillon of Toronto, Syd Smith of Detroit, who had dropped from second, and Phil Watson of Rangers.

Swedish Schenck of Toronto took over leadership in the goalkeeping department in 12 Cowley's 12 assists retained the leadership in that section for him.

The league's official spokesman was still Jimmy O'Connell of Detroit with 30 stops in the penalty box.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

When the bustle came back a little while ago, I was surprised to hear that a number of surprised observers were saying, "What a better case, it was 'bustle or muscle'."

That goes to show why the style didn't last. No woman would give a nickel to put more padding on the hips. What was wanted is to appear as streamlined as possible—better than necessary.

It's a race against time and inertia. If you do sedentary work and don't plan for your exercise, your hips can easily spread. But if you are willing to work for just fifteen minutes a day, you can take this measurement down at the rate of an inch in two weeks. There's hope even for the office girl.

The various versions of the old "bicycle" are excellent for reducing. Begin cycling by lying on the left side on the floor, head propped on the left arm, right hand on floor in front for support, and legs stretched straight out. Now pedal! Bring alternate knees sharp up toward the chest, and stretch with all your force. Pedal as hard you can around in a circle and to right position. Well, cut it out before continuing. Do fifty counts on the left side, rest, and repeat lying on right side.

And by the way, to get in line toward slimness, the new style lies with the weight on those little feet pads on the outer side of each hip. When you have finished the side bicycle, change to some other exercise, instead of lying on the floor, and repeat lying on right side.

The idea, lie on back on the floor. Then, placing the hands under the hips for a brace, hold your legs high in air and swing your legs high for 100 counts. Oh, is that too strenuous? Well, cut it out before continuing. Do fifty counts on the left side, rest, and repeat lying on right side.

And by the way, to get in line toward slimness, the new style lies with the weight on those little feet pads on the outer side of each hip. When you have finished the side bicycle, change to some other exercise, instead of lying on the floor, and repeat lying on right side.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married for 30 years. My husband has been kind to me and a good provider, but he has always been a philanderer. Recently I discovered that he had been having a love affair with a young business girl in our home town and that this had been on for five years. I came across some love letters in his coat pocket from this girl. After reading them I passed them on to my 13-year-old daughter and also to my 10-year-old son. I really gave them to the girl's employer to read. I knew he was a man of high morals and that he would disavow it if he knew of her conduct. He did so reluctantly and dependable worker. Now I would like to know whether I did wrong in publishing my husband's affair to the world and causing the girl to lose her job?

MRS. S. D. D.

Answer: It is easy to see how a wife, driven mad by discovery of her husband's infidelity and jealousy, of the woman who has supplanted herself in his affections, does things in the stress of her emotions that are neither wise nor right. Much excuse is to be made for her. Not many of us can be calm and judicious in our reasoning when our hearts are torn to tatters, and our world is crumbling about us.

But you have found, as we all do, that the revenge is not sweet as we thought it would be. It is gall and wormwood in our mouths. For it makes us do and say things that we spend our lives in regretting.

I know that you must be very sorry that you showed these incriminating letters to your young daughter, because they shivered the ideal of her father for her, and ever killed her respect for him.

Never again can he be a hero in her eyes. She will always see him as a coward and a man having a sordid intrigue with a girl and double-crossing his wife.

No matter how your husband treated you, you were not justified in having your daughter in to read them. To shake a child's faith in her father is almost as bad as to shake her faith in God.

And you must also be very sorry that you showed these incriminating letters to your young daughter, because they shivered the ideal of her father for her, and ever killed her respect for him.

Never again can he be a hero in her eyes. She will always see him as a coward and a man having a sordid intrigue with a girl and double-crossing his wife.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Walking is the child's ability to balance the body in so upright position when in motion. It demands not only physical strength but a normal mentality. For all things being equal, the slower a backward child will be slower in acquiring the ability to walk than will the bright child.

Reasons for failure to walk are numerous. Birth injuries might slow up the child's ability to coordinate the nerves which transmit the message to walk and the motor muscles to carry out that message. Defects or injuries in the ear canal where fluid controls balance, might make it difficult for the child to learn to walk and fear of falling. Biscuits or any type of malnutrition which would result in soft bones and weak muscles would impair the child's ability to walk. And, walking was unsafe and he would not wish to risk it.

What of her linguistic ability? The phrase "somewhat backward" is confusing. If she is fed but not overfed so that she becomes fat and clumsy, the child would be covered by swarms, or symmetrical rings or bars, states to which would make him timid and fearful of falling. Walking apparatus which keep the child active but do not develop his practice in walking.

British Desert Troops Take Sidi Barrani

In a surprise offensive on the Egyptian desert, forces from many parts of the British Empire, like those pictured above, have scored a major victory in the capture of the important post of Sidi Barrani and have made thousands of Italian prisoners.

If He Can't Shoot Them, He Rams Them

This smiling member of the Royal Air Force keeps a scorecard of the number of Nazi planes he shoots down, and according to the swastikas painted on his plane he has shot down 23 to date. He is the leader of a squadron of Hurricanes that tangled with an Italian bomber squadron attacking London. The Hurricanes shot down seven of the 13 Italians and this squadron leader deliberately rammed another after his ammunition had given out. He tore off a portion of the enemy plane's wing and then landed his own damaged plane safely.

Welcoming Windsors To Miami

Part of the crowd of 10,000 which crowded Miami's waterfront to greet the Duke and Duchess of Windsor as they arrived on a private yacht from Nassau. They're in first car, which quickly sped away from the dock. Shunning festivities this trip, the Windsors will stay in America only long enough for the Duchess to recover from a major dental operation.

Bolstering Supplies For Fledglings

With Canada's airplane output stepped up to high gear, training planes for them under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan are today coming off the assembly line in large numbers. Here's a group of 48 Havilland training planes assembled for final inspection. The machines are used in preliminary stages of flying instruction.

Surprise Packages

Artillery officers check shells in a magazine beneath one of Canada's great coastal defence guns. These can be hurled for miles at any enemy who ventures near the Dominion's shores.

Somebody's Christmas Dinner

Amid the ruins caused by a recent bombing of Marseille, this turkey somehow managed to escape death and is shown with his leg tied to what was once a barn door, waiting for his owner.

Handling A Big Job In A Big Way

The serious problem of preventing epidemics in Britain's crowded air-raid shelters is being tackled by special shelter health staffs. In Finsbury the borough maintains a squad of experts who take samples of the air in the shelters for regular bacteriological tests and disinfect the bedding of those using the shelters. At top a service engineer is checking the air-conditioning plant. Below, one of the health staff sprays the bedding with a powerful disinfectant. Authorities are resolved to take all precautions against the outbreak of a flu epidemic.

R.A.F. Lurks Above Clouds, Awaiting Foe

"Hidden above the clouds," descriptive phrase often found in reports of air warfare, is clearly illustrated in this photo. The thick blanket of fleecy white clouds conceals a formation of British Hurricane fighters from the ground or from German bombers below. But above the Hurricanes is another layer of clouds, and pilots must keep sharply alert lest this conceal a German aerial ambush.

Happy Birthdays—And Many Of Them!

"Happy birthday to you" is the blindest theme song for the family of Arthur Morel, 46-year-old contractor of Berlin, N.H. His recently-born 23rd child not only brought him some sort of parenthood record, but completed a birthday cycle, giving the Morels a birthday for every day in the week, every month in the year, and every year for the past 25. Above, surrounded by some of his children, Morel sits beside his wife, who holds the latest arrival, Paul Emile Ernest. The present Mrs. Morel is the mother of 13 of the children, the rest having been born to his first wife.

MATA HARI'S DAUGHTER

By Maurice Dekobra and Leyla Georgie

CHAPTER FORTY

THE orchestra conductor took his place. The lights dimmed. The melody of Debussy, the curtain rose, revealing the glass chessboard, each square occupied by its human piece. Each but the square of the White Queen—for Valérie had reserved Brinda's entrance for the last.

A patter of genteel applause paid tribute to act and costume.

In Lord Mountbatten's box, Sir John spoke rapidly and intensely into the telephone's ear.

"I am opposed to it if it may mean utter disaster. You people in the Admiralty are making the same old Mistake—underestimating the enemy. Suppose Hitler gets wind in advance of this hare-brained scheme? Do you imagine he'll be idle?"

"The French will keep Hitler occupied," said Mountbatten.

"Nonsense, man. You don't know the French Army of today. Military storm troops will be in England before they get the word."

Mountbatten shrugged.

"I don't think so. At any rate the decision is made, and the Fleet has its orders. Besides, I have other troubles just now—serious ones."

"Many serious than your country's welfare?" Sir John asked in an acid undertone.

"... for me, Confession. I say, it's my daughter."

"Your daughter?"

"Yes, she's vanished. Into this air, I say, it just occurred to me. Perhaps your aerial could help me find her."

"A little out of our line," said Sir John dryly. "Have you notified Scotland Yard?"

"Well... no. You see, she's vanished before... for a day or so. She's a very independent girl, Gladys. But never for so long. It's most upsetting."

"I'll see what I can do," promised the Intelligence Chief. "Daughters aren't always blue, are they, Mountbatten?"

His voice was bitter.

"Yes, No, I suppose not."

Dr. MacDonald judged Sir John. Steady, Jack. You haven't proved it on Brinda yet. You still backing the better strain in her heredity."

But Sir John was not listening. His men came and suddenly described something of interest in another part of the theatre. He whispered a few words to Dick.

Dick peered through the dusk of the theatre, now broken to some extent by the lights from the stage.

"By George, yes," he exclaimed. "It's Valérie. Talking to the chap that's handling the balcony spot."

Quick! I should think he'd be busy backstage."

Sir John frowned.

"So should I. By the way, Dick, have you been around back?"

"Yes, to talk to Brinda."

"To tell you the truth, no. For I was rather thinking of congratulating her after the show."

"Dick's marry showed in his face. You know we have a little over her going to Valérie's. My fault. I'm going to try to push it tonight."

The rumble of Dr. MacDonald's voice broke in.

"You're a cad, you two? But you come in to hold a Parliamentary debate, or watch the performance?"

Alas, there a Brinda now, broke her.

She, the gleam of a brilliant spotlight, Brinda whirled out upon the stage, light as thunders, graceful as a bird in flight. On polished legs she pirouetted swiftly from square to square, twirling in and around the other starlike-moving dancers. The pavana knelt, a King held out his arms.

Sir John watched with his whole soul. Abruptly he turned to Mountbatten.

"You'll excuse me a moment, General. Among the way from the line. In the foyer, his whole manner changed. "Get around backstage," Dick said. "Stay close. Brinda! And watch that fellow."

"But I don't understand, sir."

"There's no time to explain. But if you really love my niece, do as I say."

"Yes, sir," Dick assented, and was gone.

Sir John beckoned to a man standing near—a quiet-looking man in business evening wear.

"You have your men all paired. Now, sir."

"How covered, too?"

"You're all right. A fellow couldn't slip out of it."

"Very well. Send two more men to give the word. Grab him likely to break loose in here soon, so he's ready."

"Right, sir."

Wood words are woven into their hair by women of a central district of Mexico. The resultant turban-like headdress serves as a pillow for night and a protection from the sun for day.

TURKEYS WERE NEVER NATIVE TO NEW ENGLAND

Although there were wild turkeys in the Allegheny-Monaca of Pennsylvania, the turkeys used by the pilgrims for Thanksgiving dinners were not native from there. There came a long way to get there. Turkeys were domesticated in Southern Mexico, and were carried to Spain by returning Conquistadores about 1519. From there, the turkey was taken to France and Italy, and finally reached England in the reign of Henry VIII. Nearly a century later, the pilgrims brought them on the Mayflower to raise in America. It was these domesticated turkeys that were used for the first Thanksgiving dinners.
